Narrator: Have you ever tried to hide from God? Here's Gregg Harris on today's Discover God.

Gregg: In Psalm 139, David wrote, "Oh Lord, you have searched me and known me." One of the greatest fears of in the human heart is that we will be exposed, that our true self will be revealed, and in that revelation that we will be rejected, that we will be found unattractive and unlovable. People spend billions of dollars each year on makeup, clothes, cosmetic surgery, anything to project a better image to the world.

But the truth is, when we drop our pretenses, our public persona, our carefully formed defenses, what we all really desire is to truly be known and loved without condition. And of course, as followers of Christ, we know that God really does know everything about us, or at least that's what we say. But I know personally, I find that when I feel unacceptable to God, I often try to hide to pretend that He's not there, much like a baby who covers his eyes and believes the person in front of his is no longer there. And yet, I believe I am not alone in this struggle. The first time Adam and Eve disobeyed God, they covered themselves up, and hid from God.

Do you find yourself doing the same thing? You are aware of your sins, your shortcomings, the parts of you that are unattractive, and you believe that if you run from God, or ignore him, that He somehow will not notice you. Well, the great news is that God really does know everything about us, yet He loves us unconditionally. We don't have to hide from God, but we can embrace His love freely, because there is nothing to hide.

Narrator: God knows everything about you, from inside out, and loves you more than you can ever possibly know. Find out more about the character of God when you visit DiscoverGod.com. DiscoverGod.com. Because your view of God does matter.
